MIAMI, Feb. 2 (AP)—Captured anti-Castro guerrilla leader Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo said on Cuban radio and television tonight that he used Puerto Rico as a way station on the way to Cuba.

He also claimed that he and his followers were aided by the former governor of the Commonwealth, Luis Munoz Marin. One of Menoyo's aides, Ramon Quesada Somez, said he had been trained by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Gutierrez Menoyo and three companions were captured in eastern Cuba late last month. He said they entered the country Dec. 8.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, lasted less than half an hour. Menoyo expressed no contrition for his anti-Castro activities. He commented, however, "I have been thinking more about things and what I have heard is very different from reality."

Menoyo admitted most details previously claimed by the Cuban government. He said he and his followers infiltrated Cuba from a base in the Dominican Republic. Dominican authorities have denied that any such base exists. "I worked for a while with the CIA," said Somez. "They taught me to use a gun and how to use maps."

The broadcast gave no indication of what may be the fate of Menoyo, who was a major under Castro before he joined the exiles, and the others.

Meanwhile, a Miami exile said a pro-Castro spy network linking Miami, Santo Domingo and Puerto Rico led to Menoyo's capture.
